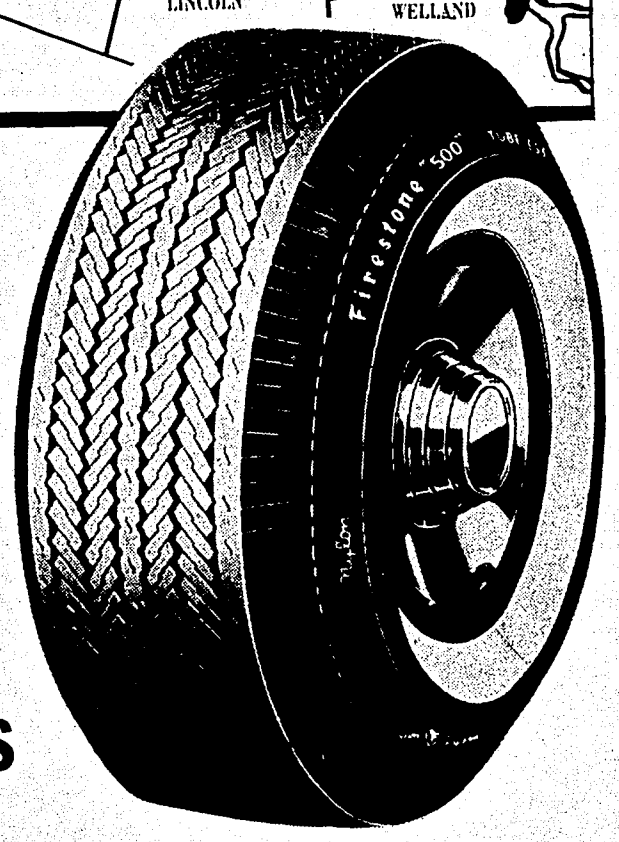
HAMILTON

the hub of industrial Canada...



Hamilton is the steel capital of Canada and the hub of its industrial wealth. From this hub other industrial centres have grown and today, Hamilton and its surrounding neighbours account for over 10% of Canada's industrial production and almost 7% of her retail sales. Firestone is proud to be among the oldest members of this great industrial fraternity.

Hamilton - A Brief History

DUNDURN CASTLE, built in 1832 by Sir Alan MacNab who was Prime Minister of Upper Canada from 1854 to 1856. Named after his home in Scotland it was never a castle in the military sense, but nearby are located the earthworks on Burlington Heights from which British troops left to repel the invading American forces at Stoney Creek in 1813.

ONE DAY IN SEPTEMBER 1669, LaSalle, the French explorer, and a small band of adventurers entered Macassa Bay (now Hamilton Harbor) from Lake Ontario, crossed in their canoes and landed on its northern shores where they were met by a friendly band of Indians. This landing-place of LaSalle is now a natural park, which will ever bear his name. During their short stay these intrepid explorers charted this beautiful natural harbor and the surrounding countryside, and recorded the first survey of the site of Hamilton, the present industrial centre of Canada.

History tells us that LaSalle was the first white man to set foot on or near the site of the now important City of Hamilton, and though it was more than a century later before the first real settlers came and laid the foundations of the city that was to be, and now is, the name of LaSalle will always occupy a place in the city's archives.

ARRIVAL OF UNITED EMPIRE LOYALISTS

Though LaSalle had come, and seen and gone, the Indians continued in practically undisputed possession of the entire district until the United States proclaimed their independence, when there was a great influx into Canada of loyalists who wished to preserve their allegiance to their Mother Country and desired to continue to live on British soil.

The first of these settlers to arrive and locate on a 300 acre farm which is now occupied by one of Hamilton's busiest manufacturing and business districts was Robert Land, who, in 1778, erected Hamiltons' first home — a log cabin that stood at the corner of Barton and Leeming Streets. At about the same time Richard Beasley opened a trading post on the site now occupied as Dundurn Park and took up some 1,000 acres of land in the present city. Others soon followed and when the first survey of the district was made in 1791 there were thirty-one families settled in the neighborhood.

GAGE MEMORIAL FOUNTAIN in Gage Park. Typical of Hamilton's many beautiful parks; Gage Park offers a panorama of colourful flower gardens and shrubbery as well as frequent band concerts during the summer months. — Lloyd Bloom Photography

ORIGIN OF THE NAME

The war of 1812 between Great Britain and the United States was responsible for the City being given the name of "Hamilton". To be beyond the range of possible conflict, George Hamilton, son of Honorable Robert Hamilton, moved westward from Niagara-on-the-Lake, and purchased a tract of property which includes the heart of Hamilton's present commercial, financial and retail district, and in the year 1813 this tract was surveyed as a town site and named "Hamilton".

Incidentally, Hamilton in the same year became a point of no small military importance, for when General Vincent, commanding the British forces retired from the Niagara frontier he took up his stand on Burlington Heights and operating from that base repelled the invading forces at the Battle of Stoney Creek in June, 1813, thus definitely determining the future of the Dominion of Canada as an important part of the British Empire. The Stoney Creek battlefield, east of the City, is still preserved as a public park, and the site where the British forces made their successful stand is marked by a suitable monument, that can be seen for miles around.

Strategically located, even in those early days, Hamilton soon gained prominence as an important trading centre. By 1840 the population had reached a total of 6,832 and during the course of that same year another bright page was added to early Canadian history, for it was then that Hamilton became a city.

FASTEST GROWING CITY

Hamilton is now the fifth largest city in Canada and it is also the fastest growing of Canada's eight largest metropolitan areas, according to the 1956 census statistics. The average annual rate of increase during the five years from 1951 to 1956 has been 5%, with the total metropolitan area population reaching 340,000. Much of this growth can be attributed to the mushrooming manufacturing industry which has broken all previous records in the expansion of existing companies and also resulted in the acquisition of a substantial number of new plants. There are now approximately 600 industries in this highly industrialized city.

A BRIEF HISTORY

Hamilton's harbor is the largest in point of tonnage of any inland harbor in Canada, and the third largest in tonnage of any Canadian port, being exceeded only by Montreal and Vancouver.

In Hamilton there are many thrilling sightseeing experiences for the visitor, including numerous spots of beauty and historic interest. These include the famous Rock Garden, Royal Botanical Gardens, Gage Park, Dundurn Castle Museum, Hamilton Art Gallery, and the panoramic view from the Niagara Escarpment.

Everybody in Canada Depends on Power!

● The child in school . . . the mother in the home . . . the farmer in his barn . . . the worker at his bench . . . everyone shares in the great benefits of cheap and plentiful electric power and the modern equipment to put it to work. Over half of that power comes from generators built by Canadian Westinghouse, producers of electrical equipment for every purpose . . . in farm and factory . . . home and industry.

YOU CAN BE SURE...IF IT'S

Our 2-ACCOUNT PLAN is Planned Saving

1 Pay all bills by cheque on a Personal Chequing Account. A quarterly statement will help you keep your records straight. The low service charges are prepaid. Your cancelled cheques are on file if you need them.

2 Keep your Savings Account for saving. Add to it from every pay. As your balance grows, you'll gain new peace of mind.

Start Planned Saving at our nearest branch now.
